

Amarendra Sahoo(2018-21)

Amarendra Sahoo (2018-21), a boy of modest means, was preordained to succeed. Passionate, goal-oriented, optimistic, industrious, confident and value-driven student that he was makes him a perfect role model for his juniors to emulate. Having been from a humble background, Amarendra was focused on his studies right from the beginning. Among four siblings, Amarendra is the only son of his parents. Being a marginal farmer, his father barely managed to afford his study. He was not a demanding child either.

At the height of Covid-19 pandemic when the modus operandi of teaching-learning changed to on-line, Amarendra faced hassles in arranging a smartphone. In the face of all odds, he never conceded to defeat. Teachers came in support of him. Hardships couldn't deter him from his goal. His foremost objective was to get a job. A bright student that he was didn't let go of the opportunity. He was selected in a campus interview and is working at L&T in the capacity of Engineer (S-1) with a CTC of 4.77 lakh. With a good head on his shoulder, he would go places in life. Teachers of Civil Engineering Department wish him best for the long road forward.

Ranjan Kumar Bhutia (2018-21)

This tall, dark, bucolic boy of Bhadrak is a perfect role model of the axiom - “Falling down is not failure, staying down is.” Ranjan Kumar Bhutia is the older among two children of his parents. A promising student Ranjan did exceedingly well in school to get admission into +2Sc in a leading government college. His father, a small-time farmer, had to make ends meet to pay for his education. However, he didn't do justice to his merit, and disappointment hit him. Not deterred by the setbacks, Ranjan said to himself that he had fallen down, not failed.

With a heavy heart, he decided to pursue a Diploma in Civil Engineering. Aware of his modest background, he made course corrections and started working hard with renewed resolution. He was always in the lookout to win his father's confidence. Resolution and hard work paid off as he pocketed the offer letter from L&T in a campus interview. Today, he is with L&T in Mumbai working on a metro railway project with an annual package of Rs. 5 lakh (approx.). As he embarks on this new journey, his hard work and determination would help him scale greater heights.
